

Brian J. McQuade, Board Member

Brian McQuade worked as a Design Engineer for five years after college, followed by operating his own business for a period of time, and more recently working 33 years as the Corporate Sales Manager for Umpqua Dairy in Oregon. McQuade retired in 2012 after 50 years in private industry.

McQuade's education and professional experiences are helping him in contributing to Dogs for Better Lives as the nonprofit grows and adds a new training facility.

Currently McQuade serves on three nonprofit boards, including Dogs for Better Lives. Being a Board Member with DFD is tremendously rewarding for him as he enjoys helping and being a part of such a well-run organization.

Brian McQuade lives in Ashland, Oregon. Married, with 3 children and 5 grandchildren, he has owned many dogs over his lifetime and in recent years has enjoyed two Labs, Royceman and Siskiyou (over 20 years combined) as his running partners each morning.

McQuade's wife was a Speech Pathologist, and continues to help him better understand the needs of our Dogs for the Deaf clients.
